SHERMAN'S MARCH TO THE SEA
IN "BIRTH OF A NATION"

"Sherman's March to the Sea"—A Scene in "The Birth of a Nation"

Quite the most wonderful of the many wonderful scenes pictured in "The Birth of a Nation" is that showing Sherman's march to the sea and the burning of the City of Atlanta. Imagine a view of a long, fertile valley extending for miles, moving through this valley in straggling formation, on lack of formation, is the army of General Sherman. The view is so extensive that the soldiers appear but little larger than ants, yet the photograph is so clear that the form of each man is perfectly delineated.

Now and then a puff of smoke indicates return fire upon snipers in farm buildings. Now and then a barn is fired in evident retaliation for a deadly bullet from its shelter, and the army of human ants is ever moving forward, wringing its way like a huge serpent towards its goal—the sea.

Atlanta is reached. Whether the burning of the city was a military necessity, or whether the conflagration was of accidental origin, chroniclers of the time fail to agree, but Atlanta was sacrificed to the flames and the great fire is so realistically pictured in "The Birth of a Nation" that one can almost smell the smoke and hear the cries of the terrified people as they flee to the hills for their lives. Few make any attempt to save household effects, so great is their haste to escape the flames and the hated Yankees. Up the hills they rush, men, women and little children, an endless parade of misery, dread and hopelessness.

Sherman's army has cut its fearful swathe through the heart of the south. Another link has been forged in the chain that shall bind the Confederacy to the stake. Another move has been made in the big war game that is to end at Appomattox court house with the surrender of Lee.

It is a wonderful picture in very truth. Nothing like it has ever appeared on the screen, and it took a vast amount of labor and infinite patience to stage such a spectacle. The Birth of a Nation will be seen for two weeks at the Elks theater, starting Sunday matinee, April 29.

At the Arizona
Blanche Sweet, the beautiful photodramatic star, will be seen at the Arizona for the last time today in the Jesse L. Lasky production of "The Ragmuffin," written by Wm. C. De Mille, the noted American dramatist, who also directed the making of the picture.

Miss Sweet, since her first appearance on the screen, has, by her wonderful dramatic instinct and charming personality, youth and beauty, placed herself as the leading star in the photodramatic firmament. Since she has been under the direction of the Jesse L. Lasky Company she has added greatly to her popularity and is now one of the greatest of the firm favorites and it is said that in her clever interpretation as a girl of the slums in "The Ragmuffin," she is seen in a character totally unlike anything in which she has heretofore appeared.

Tom Forman, the clever young juvenile, who plays opposite Blanche Sweet, made his first appearance as a member of the Lasky Company with Edith Tullifore in "Young Romance." He was also leading man for Ina Claire and has always been prominently identified in Lasky productions.

The usual Saturday matinee will start at 2:30.

NEW FIRESTONE MAN
ADDED TO THE FORCE

Eddie Rudolph, famous Ford and Firestone distributor, is prouder than ever of his tire agency for the Firestone Tire and Rubber company has just seen fit to add another tire expert to the Arizona force. H. C. Geer, of Pittsburg is the lucky man, and he tackled his new job yesterday.

Geer has many friends in Phoenix and central Arizona, for some years ago he was connected with the U. S. tire agency here. He is a rubber and tire expert and will take charge of the Arizona service work and sales promotion. The Firestone business is increasing nicely in this territory, just like it is everywhere else, and Geer reports that the Firestone factory is again being enlarged. Its total floor space is being increased, by the changes, from twenty-one to thirty-eight acres, and the shops are being run 24 hours a day at present.

As has been announced, the new addition, now being built on the local Ford garage, is to be given over to the accessory and Firestone tire department, and the space made available in the old building will be used for car storage.

W. C. T. U. CONCLUDES SESSIONS

The closing session of the W. C. T. U. state convention was ended at four p. m. yesterday and a number of the delegates left for their homes. Last night at the Methodist church eight young people engaged in the declamation contest for the gold medal given by the W. C. T. U.

SPLENDID RENDITION

The opera "Chimes of Normandy" was rendered by local talent last night at the Mesa Opera House, and while the audience had been expecting a good deal, yet it is but just to say that the splendid performance was a surprise even to those acquainted with the talented people who composed the cast. The opera will be given again tonight and a full house is assured.

TONIGHT AT MAJESTIC
The Strange Case of Mary Page, will find its usual enthusiastic and interested crowd at the theater tonight. The other feature "Beyond the Law," is of thrilling interest and the two make up an entertaining program.
